Subject: [scouts] Hike Wednesday

Hey folks,

As mentioned last week, we are on a scheduled night hike this Wednesday.

The location, none of you seemed too firm on ideas... so we waited to see, and can now see weather forecast, and were handed a good idea. :-)

Kings Forest, near the Red Hill.

There is a good solid trail there, not far from home, and there is apparently wildlife worth seeing, if we can get quiet enough!

(I won't say what, but you'll need to listen as well)

Anyhow, weather is also cooperating, so looks like almost dead calm winds, temps around 1 degree in the evening.

So, dress for hiking, bring spare clothes in a day pack, warm socks, hat, mitts, a drink, and maybe a snack.

Your personal survival kit is always a good thing to toss into your day pack as well, just in case. :-)

We will meet at the church a bit early, and DEPART from there by 645pm.

We will be back at 915pm to drop off to your parents.

So, that gives us a solid two hours on the trails in the kings forest, under the red hill.

We'll likely enter via the Pritchard Ave access point, near Leon's, if anyone misses us departing, and needs to catch up. :-
)

Thanks!

See you Wednesday night!
